

Property tax workshops being held through October and November

MCHENRY COUNTY PROPERTY TAX WORKSHOP

Save money; know your rights!

If you have questions about McHenry County property taxes, come to any of a series of upcoming property tax workshops to get the answers!

McHenry County Treasurer Donna Kurtz, County Clerk and Recorder Joe Tirio, and Chief Assessment Officer Alex Benitez are teaming up to hold the workshops in October and November at libraries across the county.

The workshops, which will be held in October and November, will teach people the ABCs of property taxes. Attendees will learn how to understand property tax bills and available exemptions, know the impact of increasing assessments, how to protect their property with fraud alerts, and understand how tax levies, budgets, and elections affect property taxes.

Speakers also will raise awareness of the county's free Property Fraud Alert service, which offers personal notification if a document is recorded in their name.

The workshops will take place:

- 6 to 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 22 – Woodstock Public Library
- 6 to 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 28 – Johnsburg Public Library
- 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 5 – McHenry Public Library
- 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 10, Crystal Lake Public Library
- 6 to 8 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 12 – Algonquin Area Public Library
- 2 to 4 p.m. Thursday, Nov 13 – Huntley Area Public Library

Most of the host libraries are asking people to register in advance - please visit our website to find the links and contact information, and to learn more about these workshops.
